The Saint Paul Police Department Professional Development Institute (PDI) is sponsoring a one-day course on Tactical Search and Seizure. “Tactical Search and Seizure” is a state-of-the-art workshop that presents complex search and seizure information in a clear, concise format. The course, which is geared toward experienced law enforcement professionals, provides an investigative edge in targeting the illegal urban arsenal and crime-breeding drug trade at the criminals’ weak points (e.g., bus stops, hotels/motels, cars).

The course addresses the topics of interdiction, the search & seizure continuum, the elements of voluntary contact, tactical “stop and frisk,” arrest and search principles, the ethics involved in the use of police power, and the impact of every officer’s actions on community perception. The benefits of this course include reduced Internal Affairs complaints, better public relations, increased officer safety, better conviction results, fewer harassment and physical abuse lawsuits against officers and better preparation for civil lawsuits against law enforcement departments.
